Probably not too long. I'm not sure about the volume of archival materials, but I can retrieve any boxes that might be relevant and have them ready for you when you arrive. The aerial photos are easily accessible in the room, and are pretty much self-serve.

I would say give yourself at least an hour to go through the materials, take photos, and fill out any necessary forms.

Laney,

How many hours do you think I will need to review all photos in the three collections?

Laney,

Yes, I would like to look at the aerials in the three collections.

What hours and days during the week is the Texas Room open?

Good afternoon,

I received your voicemail. It tends to be much easier for me to email than to try to call long distance, given the restrictions governing city departments. However, if you would like to speak with me over the phone, just let me know and I will give you a call.

The three collections that I mentioned (in fact, all of the materials that I cited) are available at the Houston Public Library. We are actually an archival component of the library located next to the main library downtown (called the Houston Metropolitan Research Center). You will probably hear us referred to as the Texas Room, which is the name of the library in our building.

Please let me know if you would like to come in and I can give you further instructions to ensure that you get to the right place.

Best regards,

Laney

Laney,

I'm looking for pictures that were taken during 1964, 1995 and 1966 of the peninsula that is adjacent to the south side of Interstate 10 where the highway crosses the San Jacinto River.

Old River is on the west side of the peninsula. The San Jacinto River is on the east side of the peninsula.
